Study method

Intake

Prior to the training, you complete an intake form, answering a number of questions about your specific personal situation. These questions will help you clearly define your development goal.

Theory and Competencies

This course covers the basics of project management and the associated competencies. The theory does not follow the order of the book, but is a mix of professional, context-specific and behavioural competencies as experienced in the workplace.

Experienced trainer

The training is provided by an experienced project manager with broad practical experience in IPMA requirements.

Exam Preparation

Because you can study the theory beforehand (through a video series and the book), the meetings provide an additional opportunity for practice-based learning. You will work on group and individual assignments focused on your practical situation, among other things.
